INDEFINITE DELAY ON RELIEF

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE Arkansas Gazette, continuing its editorial fight against Huey P. Long, says the Louisiana "kingfish" has poor reason to point an accusing finger at President Roosevelt because the federal debt has increased from 19 billions under Hoover to 29 billions today. The Louisiana state debt, says the Gazette, has jumped from 14 millions in 1927, the year before Long was elected governor, to 142 millions in 1935.

Primary Repealer Signed by Futrell; New Law Planned

Senators Ward and Lake to Draft New Bill for Run-Off

REQUIRE MAJORITY

Sponsors of Election Reform Disappointed in Governor

LITTLE ROCK.—Approval by Governor Futrell Wednesday of Senate Bill No. 7 by Senator Holloway to repeal the 1933 run-off primary law, although disappointing to supporters of the double primary plan will not be accepted as the final decision of the General Assembly on this subject.

Following a conference between Senators Lake and Ward of Independence, both of whom were sponsoring bills to amend the 1933 act to convert it into a preferential primary law, they announced that Senator Ward's bill will be redrafted to make it a new and independent preferential primary measure.

Senator Ward said he probably will introduce the new bill today. Senator Lake and eight or 10 other senators have indicated that they will sign the bill and join Senator Ward in an effort to obtain its passage.

Lake Bill Was First
Senator Lake's bill to amend the 1933 act was passed in the Senate before the Holloway bill was passed by that body. The Holloway bill was called up first in the house and was passed Tuesday. Senator Lake said he probably will not seek to have his bill called up in the house, since the law it seeks to amend has been repealed, unless the house desires to amend it to make it stand alone as a preferential primary measure.

Both the Lake and Ward bills sought to eliminate features of the run-off primary law that made it unpopular in some sections by providing that when there are only two candidates for the nomination their names would not be placed on the ballot until the second primary.

The new Ward bill will contain some provisions of the repealed act, but will make the first primary to be held three weeks before the second or general primary, purely a preferential election, except that candidates receiving a majority of all votes cast in the preferential primary would be declared the nominee.

The measure would make it mandatory that a candidate must have received a majority of the votes cast in either the preferential primary or the general primary before he could be declared the nominee.

Dole Increase in England Demanded

Government Concedes Higher Rates Following Many Riots

LONDON Eng.—(AP)—New scales for British dole payments were demanded throughout the nation Wednesday as protests against nationalization of the system of unemployment assistance continued.

The government's action Tuesday in rescinding regulations which reduced payment under previous scales in some instances, failed to appease many sections of the British isles.

Many protest meetings were held climaxed by rioting at Sheffield in which nine policemen were injured and 20 to 30 persons arrested when several thousand persons clashed with police.

Local communities and groups of unemployed in sections where the qualities have been charged—and hardships in some instances officially admitted—demanded adjustment of the rates, involving general increases. Oliver Stanley, minister of labor, Tuesday announced the government's surrender, restoring the cuts retroactively and promising the Parliament new legislation. The cabinet met Wednesday to consider the bill it will present.

State's Evidence "Framed", Defense for Bruno Insists

Nail Holes in Ladder Not There Originally, Says Witness

PHOTOS CONTRADICT

Amateur Doctor-Criminologist Supports Hauptmann Nevertheless

Copyright Associated Press
FLEMINGTON, N. J.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense Thursday pursued its hint of "framed" evidence with an expert who insisted, in the face of photographs and government reports, that three incriminating nail-holes in the Lindbergh kidnaper ladder were not in existence when he examined the ladder.

The witness was Dr. E. M. Hudson, New York physician and amateur fingerprint man.

He insisted there was only one square nail-hole in the ladder-rail when he saw it.

The defense also questioned the veracity of Millard White, who testified that a man he identified as Hauptmann was seen lurking near the Lindbergh home before the kidnapping.

No Fingerprints
FLEMINGTON, N. J.—(AP)— Testimony intended further to link the dead leader Fisch with the Lindbergh baby ransom cash and to show that the maker's fingerprints should have shown on the kidnaper ladder for six months marked Bruno Hauptmann's closing case Wednesday.

Lawyers for the Bronx carpenter, on trial for the murder and kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., brought a new array of witnesses to the ancient Hunterdon county courtroom.

They again pointed to Hauptmann's friend, Fisch, and just before adjournment attacked the state's case was made by a New York criminologist who testified that fingerprints of the ladder's maker should have shown for six months unless he wore gloves.

Dr. Erasmus M. Hudson, New York fingerprint expert, whose silver nitrate process was demonstrated to the New Jersey state police three weeks after the kidnapping, which took place March 1, 1932, swore his method would reveal prints in the wood six months after they were made.

Defense Insinuates
The expert quality of the physician's testimony was regarded as the most effective blow to the state's case against Hauptmann as the builder of the ladder, the kidnaper and the collector of the $50,000 ransom.

The defense also insinuated strongly that the authorities had made nail holes in one of the ladder uprights to match those in the beam in the attic of Hauptmann's home from which the state charges a piece of board was taken to make the ladder.

Dr. Hudson said that when he examined the ladder in March 1932, he noticed only one, and not the four nail holes which now appear on the upright.

The defense scored another point when it revealed that a beer stein which had stood in a recess of the window sill of the Lindbergh nursery at the time of the kidnapping, was not disturbed by the person who, the state says, went in and out of the window.

Four witnesses have been introduced by the defense in an effort to show Fisch was affluent after the ransom money was paid April 2, 1932, and that he tried to "unload" his money.

Mrs. Gerta Henkel, blonde, gum-chewing friend of the Hauptmanns was called to testify that Hauptmann's conduct toward her was never more than circumstantial, although he had coffee at her home when Mrs. Hauptmann was in Europe. He bought her she said, a "slip" for Christmas, but both Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann brought it to her.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's great penchant for playing off opposing forces against each other while he himself maintains a constant balance of power was never better demonstrated than in the inside history of NRA.

A majority of the National Industrial Recovery Board is strongly opposed to the pro-business and anti-labor policies of Clay Williams, the chairman, and Menckel A. D. Whiteside.

It would step down hard on Mr. Williams and those policies if the president would allow all seven members to vote.

Utility Deposit Fees Prohibited—Exempt Municipal Plants

SLOT-MACHINE TAX

Vote in House on Racing Bill Is Postponed Until Monday

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The house debated Thursday for nearly an hour on three senate amendments to a bill to establish a State Department of Public Welfare, but took no action on them when the morning hour expired.

One of the amendments would require the public welfare director to be confirmed by the senate.

The house passed a bill which would prohibit utilities from charging installation or deposit fees to customers.

Just before passage the bill was amended to strike from its provisions all municipally-owned utilities.

A bill providing for taxing slot-machines, and another providing for the transfer of the penitentiary 'walls' here to the State Highway Commission for use as its shops, was introduced Thursday.

Representative Eugene Hampton, of Lee county, author of the bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse-racing, announced he would not call up the measure for a vote until next Monday.

Hamilton "Trade" Rejected by U. S.

Offer to Surrender for Prison Term Without Death Refused

DALLAS, Texas.—(AP)—Two paths—one leading to surrender and the electric chair, the other to resistance and death by bullets—were pointed by the law Wednesday night for dapper Raymond Hamilton the Southwest's most widely-sought outlaw.

Hamilton, fugitive bank robber and gunman, offered through his captive brother, Floyd, to give himself up if federal authorities would agree to get him an Alcatraz Island prison term, saving him from death for murder.

United States District Attorney Clyde Eastus refused—thus sounding the 21-year-old outlaw's doom.

Some believe Raymond may be dead already—brought down in some hideaway by bullet wounds received in an escape from Floyd from a police trap at a Dallas apartment house Monday night. Floyd was captured Tuesday night at Shreveport and returned here Wednesday.

Raymond is under sentence of death for the shooting of an Eastham state prison farm guard. He twice has fled Texas cells in bloody escapes.

"If our men capture him, we will try him on the charges we have against him, and then turn him over to the state for execution," Eastus said. Eastus said Floyd admitted he had seen Raymond recently, but refused to say when.

Further U. S. Relief to Shank Is Denied

Judge Martineau Refers Condemned Man Back to State

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Federal Judge Martineau Thursday declined to take any direct action in the case of Mark H. Shank, Akron, (Ohio) attorney, convicted poison slayer under death sentence.

Judge Martineau held that Shank had not exhausted his recourses in the Arkansas state courts.

A temporary restraining order was issued by Judge Martineau on December 26, less than 48 hours before Shank was scheduled to die in the electric chair, granting him a reprieve until final hearing of a petition to compel state officials to allow a sanity hearing.

Shank was convicted in Saline Circuit Court, December 7, 1933 for the murder of Alvin Coley, and the date of his execution has been set three times.

The petition filed on Shank's behalf in federal court alleges prevalence of mob spirit and local prejudice at the time of his trial and maintains that he has not received a fair trial.

Whisky Joke Kills 6-Year-Old Child

Murder Warrant Issued for Texans Who Put on "Comedy Act"

TEXARKANA.—That a six-year-old boy died after he had been made to drink a cup full of whisky so that he "would get drunk and act funny" was the charge made by W. N. Harkness, county attorney of Bowie county, Texas, here Wednesday night.

Mr. Harkness said that the boy, Charles Edward Ballard, died in the agony of convulsions less than 48 hours after he had drunk the whisky at a party at his home 22 miles west of here. He said that the child's mother was present at the affair.

Mr. Harkness said that a murder warrant has been issued for the man who gave the whisky to the child but he added that Sheriff Henry Brooks has been unable to locate the man as yet.

District Attorney Elmer L. Lincoln said that he would present the facts to the federal grand jury when it meets here next week.

TEXARKANA.—E. C. White is trustee for the bondholders of the district.

A degree of foreclosure is sought; a mandatory injunction forcing the commissioners of the district, L. C. Helms, G. E. Cannon and W. C. Shelton, to pay over all funds now in their possession as a result of collections from the district; an order to institute suits against all delinquent taxpayers in the district and a restraining order to enjoin the commissioners from disposing of state refunding obligations (bonds) and asking that the same be placed in escrow at the Union National Bank is also requested by the plaintiff.

NRA to Be Amended to Provide for Better Prosecution Under Law

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Cash—4 billions 800 millions of it—was the nub of the administration's troubles in congress Thursday.

This lump sum relief fund, already heavily penciled by a hair-split senate appropriations committee decision, was still lost in the woods of possible amendments.

The house Thursday devoted itself to further consideration of the annual supply bills.

A house committee approved a resolution to investigate the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. by the Federal Communications Commission.

To Tax Exempt Securities
President Roosevelt has informed congressional leaders, an authoritative source said Thursday, that when the time is ripe he proposes to ask for legislation permitting the United States to tax securities of a type now tax-exempt.

The change would not supply to securities now outstanding, it was said, nor would it be suggested until the nation is out of the depression.

To Control Trusts
President Roosevelt, according to another informed source, would like congress to change a portion of the NRA so that the anti-trust laws would apply more closely than in the past.

This disclosure Thursday was called important by leaders in congress.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, said the changes "if suggested would be few and simple and dictated by experience."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

High Blood Pressure Still Fools Experts.

Although much medical attention has been given to high blood pressure, there is still doubt as to factors which enter into this process.

One investigator has listed five groups of factors which may be concerned in a rise in blood pressure. These include substances which circulate in the blood, stimulations coming from the nervous system, mechanical factors that operate to affect blood vessels, infections and sensitivities to various substances, and constitutional factors or inherited difficulties.

A number of chemical substances which circulate in the blood are known to affect the pressure. Guanidine, is one, although the mechanism by which a residue of guanidine occurs in the body is not clear.

Cholesterol, in which certain food substances are very rich, is another such substance. However, many students of the subject insist that the cholesterol in the blood is the result of changes in the blood vessel system, which occur during high blood pressure.

Use of both alcohol and tobacco has been claimed to be responsible for high blood pressure, but high blood pressure among women frequently occurs when there is no record that the women have ever smoked or taken alcohol.

Of particular significance are those investigations which deal with secretions of the glands, such as adrenalin and pituitary. There is good evidence that both of these substances can raise the blood pressure.

Of late, studies have been made of the part played by the nervous system in causing high blood pressure. Many persons with high blood pressure have increased pressure under emotional strain.

High blood pressure also may be induced by changes in the kidney and genito-urinary system, but this is not fully understood.

Relationship between infections and sensitivities and high blood pressure has also been the subject of investigation, because there seem to be certain cases in which these factors play a part. Certainly, however, they are not responsible for the vast majority of cases.

Of great significance are hereditary factors, because a family history of blood vessel disease has been found in 85 per cent of a group of such patients.

The result of all these investigations is an indication of the fact that high blood pressure, as it commonly occurs in people past middle age, is a condition brought about by many different causes.

We are learning a great deal about the way in which the blood vessels work, and about relationships between circulation and organs of the body. These facts show necessity to clear up cases, regulate hygiene of the body, and in other ways bring about an approach to normality, to obtain relief for most patients.

Makes Elmer Gantry Look Like a—Sanit—Preacher in This Novel Is About the Worst Yet

There are corners of human society so dark and repulsive that we get a shock whenever a man comes along with a torch to illumine them. Erskine Caldwell is a novelist who carries a torch into such places; and his newest book, "Journeyman," will give you a very bad half hour if you are in the least squeamish.

Mr. Caldwell takes us to a remote poor-white settlement in Georgia and shows us the arrival of a wandering preacher; and this lanky evangelist is a chap who makes Elmer Gantry look like St. Thomas Aquinas.

He is a prodigious drinker, sucking up the hill-billies' corn liquor like so much water; he is inordinately lecherous; he is a sly, scheming, avard-but-rogue in every sense of the word—but

Income Tax in a Nutshell

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1935.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the amount of net income in excess of the personal exemption, credit for dependents, earned income credit, dividends of domestic corporations subject to taxation, and interest on obligations of the United States and obligations of instrumentalities of the United States. Surtax on net income in excess of $4,000.

No. 3

Who Must File Returns

Returns are required of every single person who for the year 1934 had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1934 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classified as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together may make separate returns of the income of each, or other income may be included in a single joint return. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

Veto Auto Code Revision

That doesn't suggest the sour atmosphere at NIRA meetings. Take the one at which a majority of the voting five, quite unknown to newspaper correspondents, voted on proposed changes in the automobile code. Marshall took a pointed opportunity, while Williams was out of the room, to suggest that although the board's action might be kept secret from the public is probably would be promptly made known to the auto manufacturers.

Another member raised the question as to how to prevent that and it was moved and seconded that the news be delivered verbally at the White House by Marshall.

A board majority voted in defiance of the automobile industry for elimination of the famous "merit clause" in the auto code, for a straight 40-hour week instead of the present "averaging" provisions, which permit much longer working weeks in peak seasons and for a speed of production which would reduce large seasonal unemployment in the industry.

PR Does the Deedling

This news, published here for the first time, would be extremely important news if there were any assurance that Roosevelt would follow the NIRA recommendations. What happened after the board's secret vote against continuance of retail price fixing in the cigarette business was a recent example.

With Williams refraining from voting because he is head of the Reynolds Tobacco Company, the other voting members split two to two on the question of continuing the "emergency period," fixing the price you and I pay for a package of cigarettes.

The board wrangled all one morning, Whiteside upholding the cause of price-fixing. But it seemed that the rules called for a lapse of the "emergency" period unless the board affirmatively voted for continuance.

"Victory" Is Defeat

Whiteside wanted the issue referred to Richberg, but the discussion became so muddled that finally even he gave up and no one was left in opposition to abandonment of cigarette price-fixing.

The liberals, including Smith and Henderson—who had been cheering from the sidelines—patted each other on the back and rejoiced overnight at a great victory.

At the next meeting they were astonished to find the cigarette code again on the agenda. Marshall, an opponent of price-fixing, read a letter from Richberg expressing the president's desire, as a result of "serious" conditions in the retail cigarette business, that price-fixing be continued.

Beauty Emerges From Masks

Masks generally are considered the most pretentious of all beauty treatments. If done by a professional they cost a good deal, too. However, you can apply home-made ones yourself and, if you follow a few simple rules, be perfectly sure that your skin will be benefited.

Never smooth a mask of any kind on dirty or even slightly dusty skin. Clean your face and neck thoroughly before you start. Always leave the preparation on until it is absolutely dry. If you remove it while the mixture is still moist, you will have wasted the time spent applying it. If your skin is dry or normal, better use tissue cream immediately after washing off the mask. If it is oily, omit the tissue cream.

Don't expect one mask treatment to work an overnight miracle. Not until you have applied one a week for at least ten weeks can you hope to notice a decided improvement in the texture and color of your complexion. Try several types to determine just what does you the most good.

There are commercially prepared masks, of course, and any number that can be made inexpensively at home. You might use that old stand-by, raw egg mask, and see what it will do.

Separate the yolk from the white and lightly stir each one in a bowl. Then, after cleaning face and neck smooth on a layer of white from base of the throat right up to the hairline. Let it dry. Cover with alayer of yolk and let it dry, too. Repeat in layers until all of the egg is used. Then lie down for twenty minutes or until the mask is dry. Wash off with warm water.

Next: Treatment for split nails.

has been heard from the president. Smith and Henderson are permitted to make motions at board meetings, second motions, and deliver heated speeches—but not to vote.

Board Kept Seesawing

Roosevelt presumably knows that if Smith and Henderson were voting, the "liberal majority" would consistently uphold measures for labor and consumer protection and that Williams and Whiteside, thus rendered impotent, probably would resign.

Roosevelt obviously doesn't want either a clear conservative or a clear liberal majority dominating NRA at present. The existing situation makes it easier to dominate that show by taking a hand in any critical issue.

Nevertheless, at the recent night White House conference, when recovery agency heads were summoned to discuss the future of NRA, the president took a much more advanced position as to future government supervision over industry than has been shared by Williams or Co-ordinator

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She told her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father.

STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

GALE goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by HENRY WESTBROOK, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Henry has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he learns her name.

VICKY THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

LEOTA BOLLER, another employee, tells Gale the mill workers are planning to organize secretly and demand their rights. She asks Gale to come to a meeting and Gale agrees. Later she learns that Leota is a company spy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

GALE stood still and said, "Why, Josie—!"

"It's the truth," the other insisted stoutly. "Wait till we get out of here—I'll tell you more about it."

They followed the hurrying, pushing crowd along the corridor. Gale had heard there were spies in the mill, that the company paid certain men and women for keeping them informed about what was going on among the employees, but these rumors had never seemed quite real. Could Josie be right about it? Was Leota Boller really a spy?

As they turned into the wash room Josie looked back and said in a low voice, "Wait for me outside."

Gale put on her coat and hat and hurried out of the building. It was only a few moments before Josie reappeared. Another girl was with her and the three of them went down the walk and through the big gate together. There the third girl set off in one direction and Josie and Gale took another.

Gale glanced over her shoulder and saw that no one was near enough to overhear. She said, "What makes you think what you said—?"

"About Leota? Because I know it's true. I got a friend who works in the business office and he's seen her in there reportin' what she's picked up snoopin' around. She gets paid for it. Can you imagine that? Gettin' paid for bein' a tattletale. She's not the only one, either. There's lots more. Ed Vogel, the gate-keeper, is the worst of the lot. The low-down, snoopin' tattletale! Believe me, when I see him or that Leota I keep my distance. A person's got to be careful. I tell you. Say—I hope you didn't tell her anything!"

"Why, no," Gale said doubtfully. "I don't believe I did—"

Had she? Had she told Leota Boller anything which, repeated, could make trouble for Gale? She tried to remember what each of them had said. It was Leota who had been so outspoken against the company, against the way employees were treated. If Leota was a spy—yes, she might have said those very things, hoping to get Gale to commit herself. All at once Gale remembered about the meeting she had promised to go to. "I'll tell Leota I can't go," she decided.

JOSIE went on speaking. "Gee, if you tell anything slip you'll be sorry for it!" she prophesied.

"I'm sure I didn't," Gale told her. She thought it was better not to tell Josie any more about the conversation with Leota. There was still a possibility that Josie might be wrong about the other girl. "Whether she is or not," Gale assured herself, "I won't take chances. I won't go to the meeting with her."

Thus she dismissed the whole affair. It never occurred to Gale that the incident might have more serious consequences.

She had no time to think about Leota Boller when she reached home. Her father lay back against the pillows and Gale noticed with a stab how old he looked.

He greeted her cheerfully. Yes, Mrs. O'Connor had come in and brought him some food at noon and she'd been in twice since.

"Here's your medicine," Gale told him. "You're to take it three times a day after meals. And here's the evening paper. I'll turn the light on and you can read it while I'm in the kitchen—"

But Tom Henderson said he'd rather not have the light on. And anyhow he didn't feel like reading. Gale glanced at him anxiously but the glance told her nothing. She went to her own room and changed the mill uniform for a house dress. In the kitchen, in place of the soiled breakfast dishes she expected to find, there was a pile of clean cups and saucers, plates and knives and forks.

"Mrs. O'Connor!" Gale thought. "Bless her! I'll have to find some way to make up for all this—"

She busied herself scraping carrots and chopping cabbage and cutting slices of mush to fry. Phil liked fried mush and it didn't cost much. She set the table as soon as the vegetables were on the stove. Then she made toast and poured steaming hot milk over it. She set a bowl of the milk toast on a tray with a cup of tea and was just ready to take it to her father when Phil came in.

"I'll take it," he offered.

"Oh, thanks, Phil!"

GALE went about getting the meal on the table and when Phil returned it was ready. They sat down, facing each other, each aware of the vacant place at the foot of the table.

Phil said, "It seems better to-night. Don't you think so?"

"Yes. Only he looks so tired."

"I noticed that," Phil agreed, "but he told me he didn't feel tired."

"You know he never admits anything is wrong."

"Yes, that's true," Phil talked of other things then.

A little later he arose and went into the front of the house. Gale gathered up the dishes and put on water in the kettle to heat. She was on her way to her father's room when there was a knock at

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold
Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.
How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.
Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.
Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Guernsey to Play Lewisville Friday

Local Team Will Leave for Game in LaFayette County

Two Guernsey basketball teams will go to Lewisville Friday night to play senior and junior teams of that school. Hugh Bristow, Guernsey coach, reported that his senior team was in the best of condition and expressed belief that his men would win.
The Guernsey B team is badly handicapped. Three players will be left at home, due to pneumonia.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP
INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY
BY DAN THOMAS
Again Film Fans Hall "Another Valentino"

HOLLYWOOD — Although many have aspired to the seat in filmdom's hall of fame left vacant by Rudolph Valentino, fewer than a handful of men have been mentioned as even possible successors to the great lover—and nobody has been found who could take his place.
Recently a possible successor flashed across the cinema horizon. In many quarters Tullio Carminatti is being hailed as another Valentino.
But Carminatti, a countryman of the famous Rudy, wants no such distinction.
"I want to make good as Tullio Carminatti, and not as a second Valentino or as a second anybody else," declares the actor. "Don't mistake me, I admire Valentino tremendously, but I don't want to capitalize on another's popularity. I want to make my own way."

Carminatti is frequently referred to as a new comer on the screen. As a matter of fact, 10 years ago, after achieving many triumphs in Europe, he was brought to Hollywood by Joseph M. Schenck and starred in "The Bat."

A succession of silent films brought him into the Hollywood spotlight.
When the Warner brothers judged a microphone into the movie business the business changed overnight. Chaos reigned. Carminatti, along with many others found himself on the outside looking in.

He spoke with an accent. And accents just weren't accepted during the early days of the talkies.
Recent Didn't Stop Him
Always having been a man of action Carminatti didn't hang around to see what was going to happen. He caught the first train for New York and stepped right into the leading role of the stage play, "The Command to Love." Following that came a long run in "Strictly Dishonorable" and another hit in "Music in the Air."

Again he was brought back to Hollywood, this time to play with Constance Bennett in "Moulin Rouge," and with Ann Harding in "Gallant Lady."

That was in 1933 and his slight accent the very thing which a few years before had driven him from the screen, drew tremendous applause, particularly from women. There was a romantic ring to it.

Still however, the Italian needed one great picture to put him at the top. That came last year with Grace Moore in "One Night of Love." His success in this film was as outstanding as was hers, so great in fact that many think of it as his first picture. This is the way things go in this movie world.

A few weeks ago he finished playing with Lillian Harvey in "Let's Live Tonight," which, when it is released, will bring him increased fame. Already most of the producers in Hollywood are seeking his services.

But he takes his new found success in a most matter of fact manner. And why not, years ago at the age of 22 he was leading man for the great Elvira Duse. At 23 she told him to go and become her stage director. The movies have no greater glory to offer.

Won't Dress Up
You have often heard the expression: "one man in a million." That man now lives. In fact he might be termed one man in 50 million. You're right, he's Will Rogers. A few nights ago Vice President Garner gave a very formal party in honor of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The elite of Washington society was present all the way up to the third degree. Then Rogers arrived, wearing his customary blue serge suit. Not another man in these United States would have dared to do such a thing. Apparently the only time Will can be forced into evening clothes is when he is in front of a camera—and getting paid for wearing them.

final committee action until February 14. Repealers wanted to decide the issue Wednesday night. Kenneth McCulla of Houston, author of the motion delay action, finally withdrew the proposition.

An unofficial poll of the committee, taken by a friend of retention of wagering showed 10 members favoring repeal, five against it and six doubtful.

C. R. Pennington, secretary of the Retail Merchants Association of Abilene, said that legalized wagering has had a bad influence on business conditions. He read a letter signed by 15 Abilene business men urging repeal.
"Every dollar wagered at the race track is taken from the wives and children of this state," he said, vehemently. "This gambling has cut down sales. Credit men in cities where tracks are located will tell you that collections and business have been poor since this law was placed on the books.

Representative Franklin Spears of San Antonio, location of one of the racing plants that have sprung up in Texas since wagering was legalized, said that the state received approximately $500,000 in taxes from the racing industry.

"Would you legalize stealing and license it and give the state a cut?" Pennington demanded. "Gambling and stealing are in the same class."

K. H. Parker, statistician for a group of persons interested in repeal, said Racing Commission figures disclosed that in 1934 the total bet at 14 tracks in Texas was $21,067,625 of which the state received $27,646 and the racing promoters $1,579,116. Parker said that on the "breaks" alone the tracks retained approximately $189,000 last year, in addition to revenue from program sales, admission fees and other concessions.

"The track owners take out of circulation in a community or territory more than 27 per cent of the money actually bet," Parker said. "The Anti-Race Track Gambling League of Texas feels that the price is entirely too high and that there is only one mathematical surety in race track gambling... that in the end the better loses, the state is not materially aided and the business interests are seriously damaged."

A committee member suggested it was misleading to say betting took money out of circulation since the winners would spend it.

Parker replied it was better for a community if many persons spent a dollar a day than if a few spent larger sums. Parker disagreed with a suggestion that bookmakers constituted the chief evil, saying there now were an estimated 200 "bookies" in Dallas whereas only 35 existed there before legalized betting. He charged that a swarm of undesirable persons had invaded Texas as a result of legalized gambling.

A Dallas finance company had advised him, Parker said, that collections fell off sharply after each race meet. He quoted an employer as saying he had discharged 20 employees because they were so occupied with betting they would not wait on customers.

HERE AND THERE

take, in a nation which has twelve times as many automobiles as the world average. Perhaps we are already too well off on the score of automobiles and radios.

But we are not too well off in the matter of education.

Education is all that protects us from losing our civil rights and passing under the rule of a dictator, with the power to clothe his friends with riches and to put his enemies in jail.

Would you want that?
It's a pleasant gamble, perhaps. But the favor of a dictator, like the gratitude of a republic, is notoriously fickle.

Self-reliance, we Americans have been taught, is the greatest virtue. Huey says: "Every man a king."

That is a supreme bit of impudence from a circus clown.

Every American is a king. And being a king already, he has everything to lose.

X X X
You can't very well explain this. Most Americans feel it.

But to prove it requires education. I don't mean book-learning as such. I mean the interest in all things human which an education inspires.

A man's education only begins when he leaves school behind him—but he has greater means to help himself and his fellow men, on account of that free education which our American government is supposed to guarantee.

The guarantee has been sadly bent during these panic years.

We need to do something about it. We need to get the public schools out of bankruptcy. We need to improve the teachers' morale with decent salaries; and we need free textbooks for the poorer class of youngsters, to whom the purchase of textbooks is equivalent to charging tuition.

That's why this newspaper is fighting for such taxes as are necessary. We think Emory Thompson is right when he advocates an increase in the state income tax rates.

We think John Wilson is right when he advocates free textbooks. The public schools of Arkansas must be improved.

Either they will be improved under the present conservative administration, or a radical administration will take things over in the election of 1936.

And if 1936 rolls around without any action, Arkansas is apt to do some surprising things—and this newspaper will be in the radical camp.

State Refuses to Relinquish Prison

Wright Portion of Tucker Farm Held Despite Debt Default

LITTLE ROCK.—The state is not going to give up the Wright place addition to Tucker prisoner farm, at least not this year, except under court order, but an effort will be made to raise the money from a special tax source to pay the $250,000 demanded by the Deming Investment company.

A sub-committee of the joint budget committee of the legislature reached this decision Wednesday at a meeting with the governor and Chairman Walter Helms of the State Penal Board.

The committee also voted to ask the attorney general to determine the status of the present contract between the state and the investment company. It is undetermined now whether the state holds the title to the farm of 6,500 acres, whereon 500 convicts are quartered, and is in default on its

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES
Win Back Pop... Vigor... Vitality
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.
If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may be clogged. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pop and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.
If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.
But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in a few days for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "drugs" or "kidney-forming" drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.
